

History in Danger

The World Heritage Sites in Danger of being Lost with focus on North and South American Sites

Belize Barrier Reef Reserve System

Largest barrier reef in the northern hemisphere

Río Plátano Biosphere Reserve

One of the last tropical rainforests in Central America

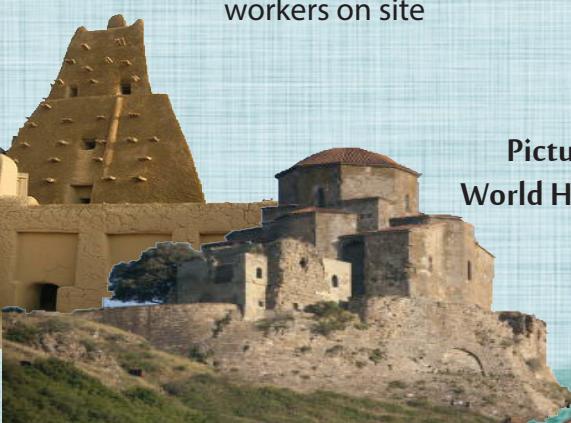

Chan Chan Archaeological Zone

Largest City in pre-Columbian America with a strict political and social strategy

Humberstone and Santa Laura Saltpeter Works

Site of former company that processed saltpeter with housing for the workers on site

Pictures from World Heritage Sites

Everglades National Park

Consists of unique waterways that offer ideal habitats for threatened species

Coro and its Port

One of the first colonial towns and last remaining site that contains buildings with both Spanish and Dutch architectural techniques

Fortifications on the Caribbean Side of Panama: Portobelo-San Lorenzo

Example of 17th and 18th century military architecture built by the Spanish Crown in protection of trade

City of Potosí

Largest industrial complex during the 16th century that used hydraulic mills to extract silver

Map of all The World Heritage Sites in Danger of being Lost

Metadata

Map Source: Natural Earth

Data: World Heritage List provided by UNESCO (text and data points)

North and South America Map Projection: Goode Homolosine World Projection: Mercator

Symbol Data from the Noun Project: Manatee By Kristen Gee, Coral Reef By Ecem Afacan, Cannon By Creative Stall, Plant By Hero Arts, Coins by Khaleel, Building By Creative Stall, Incan Symbol By David Pascual and Village by Pham Thi Dieu Linh

Pictures of World Heritage Sites from UNESCO

Turtle Author: Brandon Rosenblum, Timbuktu Author: Francesco Bandarin, Monuments of Mtskheta Author: Amos Chapple

Katie Jo Butteris