

AN UNDERGROUND GUIDE TO A WEEKEND IN LONDON

open me

Hello Mates,

Welcome to London! I am fortunate enough to have been able to call London home for four months during my study abroad program. Now that I'm back in the United States, I genuinely miss London — rain and all — every single day. Just ask my friends, who have to put up with my constant complaining.

In all seriousness, London is a ~brilliant~ place to study abroad and an exciting city to visit for a weekend. The locals speak English (with accents I envy) and, despite what others may tell you, the food is actually really good!

In my Cartography 370 course at UW-Madison, I strove to create a series of maps that give weekend visitors a taste of all that London has to offer, from the posh neighborhood of South Kensington to the artsy Shoreditch area.

While extremely time-consuming, this project has given me the opportunity to reflect on my study abroad experience. While I have curated what I believe are three pretty eclectic and exciting days, I encourage you to take your own routes based on your personal interests. That may include high streets and high tea, or maybe a soccer game (sorry, "football match") or two. Regardless, I hope you enjoy your time in London as much as I did. Please post pictures so I can live vicariously through you!

Cheers,

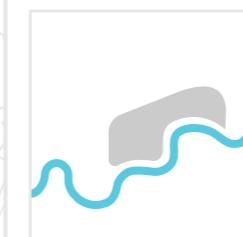

Brandon
